

Dorothy C. Wong is a professor of McIntire Department of Art at the University of Virginia. She holds a PhD in Art History from Harvard University in 1995. Specializing in Buddhist art of medieval China, her research addresses topics of art in relation to religion and society, and of the relationship between religious texts/doctrine and visual representations. In addition to many articles on a wide range of Buddhist art topics, her recent work includes Buddhist Pilgrim-Monks as Agents of Cultural and Artistic Transmission: The International Buddhist Art Style in East Asia, ca. 645–770, published by the National University of Singapore Press in 2018.